

Paid Circulation Of Over 2,100 Is Result Of Public Welcome

Era and Express Sells 876 Copies Weekly In Town
Of Newmarket Alone, 882 Others In Trading Area

How does the public like the amalgamated newspaper, The Newmarket Era and Express? Circulation figures seem to indicate that the new newspaper has had a royal welcome from the people of Newmarket, Aurora and district.

The Era and Express completed four months of publication on Sept. 30. Net paid circulation for the last three of those four months was 2,067. That is an average of the paid circulation (including single copies sold, but excluding subscriptions in arrears, copies to advertisers, correspondents, exchanges, or any free or unsold copies) for each week for the three months.

Circulation for September alone was much better than the three months average, and puts The Era and Express well up among the first dozen A. B. C. (Audit Bureau of Circulations) weeklies and semi-weeklies in the province.

September net paid average weekly circulation was: Newmarket 876 (including single copies bought by district residents at Newmarket stores), Aurora 267, trading zone, 615, all others 370, total 2,128.

The press run since the amalgamation has varied but has never been less than 2,700 copies. The combined press run of the two former newspapers was 3,200.

This fine net paid circulation showing is to be attributed to the co-operation and support of both the former readers of the Newmarket Era and the former readers of the Express-Herald. These readers have courteously accepted the paid-in-advance subscription requirements which enables The Era and Express to make a good A. B. C. showing and so obtain a reasonable share of available advertising. Not only national but local advertisers like this guarantee and detailed information about the circulation of the newspaper from which they are buying advertising space.

There is still a short list of former Express-Herald subscribers who are in arrears. All other subscribers, whether former Era or former Express-Herald or new subscribers receive notification when their subscriptions expire and if, for any reason, they do not choose to renew the newspaper is no longer mailed to them.

NEWMARKET FAMILY HELPED OPEN NORTH

A pioneer citizen of the north country, who went to Temiskaming before the railway, more than 40 years ago, and a member of a family which gave its name to one of the earlier communities of the district, Thomas Gordon Heaslip died last Friday in hospital at Kirkland Lake.

Mr. Heaslip had been ill for about a week before his death, which followed an operation. He would have been 74 on Saturday.

The late Mr. Heaslip had been a resident of northern Ontario since 1901, broken only by service overseas in the last war. He was one of a Newmarket family of eight brothers and five sisters. Six of the brothers went up the White River in the early days of the present century. Thomas Heaslip settled first at Tomstown, shortly afterwards moving to what is now Heaslip, and while that remained home to him for years, he had been engaged in different enterprises in various parts of Temiskaming.

Mr. Heaslip was in Cobalt in his younger life, being employed for a time at the old Hudson Bay mine there. He had worked also in the Gowganda mining camp and had prospected in a number of the mineral areas of Temiskaming, including Kirkland Lake. Later on, he was engaged at the Wright-Hargreaves mine, but for the past seven or eight years had been living retired in Kirkland Lake. He spent three winters in Florida in recent years.

During the last war, Mr. Heaslip enlisted with the 159th battalion as a member of the band of that unit, and, on proceeding to England, was transferred to the 42nd reserve. He had been a member of the Masonic order for 55 years, having been initiated into Occident lodge, Toronto, in 1887. He was also an Orangeman and a charter member of the Kirkland Lake post, No. 87, of the Canadian Legion.

Mr. Heaslip was born on a farm near Newmarket on Oct. 10, 1868, and spent part of his earlier life in Toronto. His father, Benjamin Heaslip, came from county Cavan in Ireland, and his mother, Philadelphia Lloyd, was of United Empire Loyalist stock. He was married to the former Mary Jane Gorman, who also came from county Cavan, and who predeceased him about 30 years ago.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Fred W. Widdifield of Newmarket, and four brothers and two sisters. The brothers are Elmer and Joseph of Englehart, Elmer in Heaslip and Benjamin of Newmarket. The sisters are Miss Merab Heaslip of Heaslip and Mrs. H. Sandford of Toronto.

The funeral was held on Sunday, twentieth anniversary of the fire disaster of Oct. 4, 1922, in which a number of Mr. Heaslip's relatives lost their lives. Burial was made in the Englehart cemetery. In the morning a service was conducted at the Symington funeral chapel in Kirkland Lake. Rev. E. E. Long, minister of Trinity United church, officiated, and comrades of the Canadian Legion post acted as pallbearers.

The casket, draped with the Union Jack, was taken to Englehart, where another service was held in the United church, conducted by Rev. J. Harrower, the minister. At the graveside the last rites of the Masonic order were observed. Bro. James Paterson, a past master of the lodge, was in charge of these ceremonies.

RELIGION WILL BE TAUGHT IN SIX AND SEVEN

PUBLIC SCHOOL BOARD APPROVES PLAN FOR RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION

CLERGY TEACH

Religious education will be given by Newmarket clergymen for one half hour weekly to the senior grades of Newmarket's three public schools.

The public school board made this decision at a meeting on Friday evening after hearing three members of the Newmarket Ministerial Association, Rev. G. H. Johnson, Rev. Henry Cotton and Rev. A. B. Stein.

"There is a feeling that there is a certain amount of lack in the fundamental training of our youth," Mr. Cotton told the board. "A Boston judge had 4,000 juvenile delinquents before him. Less than 25 had ever been in a Sunday-school. It is apparent that religion, the things the Bible stands for, children do not get in the homes. Only half of them are in the Sunday-schools."

"Respect for womanhood, for parents, grows out of knowledge of God, of Christ, and all our British laws are based on God's laws. No matter how much arithmetic, or English, they learn, if they lack this respect for God, for man, they have a fundamental lack. In many Ontario cities ministers are allowed half an hour a week for religious teaching."

"We started this over a year ago in Kingston as an experiment," said Mr. Stein. "The board of education was so delighted with the results at the half-way mark that they asked the ministerial association to extend the teaching from the sixth to the seventh grades."

"No effort is made to dogmatize on the particular tenets of denominations. Children are allowed to withdraw during the instruction period if their parents wish, but in Kingston I found Jewish youngsters taking part and doing particularly well in answering questions."

Mr. Johnson quoted a statement that if the British empire ever were to fall it would not be by the weight of arms but through her own moral decline.

"This is not a brain-wave of our own," he said. "This is something that is being pressed on us continually by our church authorities."

Chairman W. H. Eves quoted from the school law to the effect that every school is to be opened with the Lord's prayer and scripture, and closed with prayer, but that no child is to be required to take part in religious exercises to which the parents object. He said that provision was made in the school law for the clergy to go into the schools and teach according to a prepared material.

"The York county Home and School council on Saturday highly recommended religious training in the schools," said Mrs. J. C. R. Edwards. "It is being pushed because of an increase in juvenile delinquency in Toronto."

"In what grades would you give instruction?" asked R. L. Pritchard, secretary of the board.

"Six, that is eight and nine years, and grade seven," said Mr. Cotton. "And perhaps later we could with your permission go into the eighth."

"I think that this is a very fine thing," said Principal H. A. Jackson. "I agree that it should be done, for the effect it will have in preventing delinquency. I think it should include grade eight. Would it be taught in high school?"

"Not just now," said Mr. Cotton. "We wouldn't want to undertake too much at once."

"The opening exercises take from ten to 15 minutes," said Mr. Jackson. "Half an hour would mean only another 15 minutes."

"The reading of the scripture on other mornings by the teacher could be arranged to fit in with the lesson for the week," suggested Mr. Stein.

After the delegation had left, Trustees Frank Bothwell and Mrs. Edwards moved that permission be given for teaching religion in whatever rooms it could be worked out, provided that the teaching be non-sectarian.

Trustees L. B. Rose, R. L. Pritchard and Stephen Rose all supported the resolution.

Victory Loan Is Talk Of The Town, Need Of The Nation

Organization Meeting Friday Evening Is First
Big Event Of The Third Victory Loan Campaign

The third Victory Loan is on the march!

With the opening date less than two weeks away, plans are moving swiftly to make the loan in North York a great success and a demonstration of the strength of the home front.

Capt. Aubrey Davis, North York chairman, is calling an organization meeting for all the prospective workers, to be held at Pickering College on Friday evening.

"With each campaign the seriousness of the situation is more apparent and impresses me with the necessity of the full cooperation of everyone," Mr.

Davis states.

Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales stated that Sunday, Oct. 18, will be Victory Loan Sunday, and that the Newmarket Ministerial Association will take charge of a meeting in the town hall at 8 p.m. The clergy will curtail the services in their own churches that evening.

Anyone interested is asked to attend a meeting with the town council Victory loan committee, Bandmaster Robert Moore and the Ministerial Association in the council chamber on Monday evening.

The campaign in Newmarket will open the following day with the raising of the flag ceremony.

Town Will Accept October Tax Payments At New Stand

TRANSACTION COMPLETED THIS WEEK, ALTERATIONS TO BE MADE

The town will have moved into its new municipal home by next Tuesday, in time to be ready for the Oct. 15 tax payments. N. L. Mathews, K.C., clerk and solicitor, hoped at a town council meeting on Monday evening.

Mr. Mathews had the written consent of the Ontario municipal board to the purchase of the Imperial Bank building and stated that the transaction was to be completed Wednesday.

The town's insurance brokers advised Mr. Mathews that the building was cheap at $9,000 and should be insured for $12,000.

Councillor Wm. Dixon, chairman of the property committee, said that a minimum of alterations would be made. A new desk and other equipment were needed. The council approved expenditures of $250 to $300.

Mr. Dixon said that the town would buy from the bank about ten tons of coal on hand.

Councillor Frank Bowser asked about the vacant shop at the back. Mr. Mathews thought that the town should try to rent it.

"We should consider getting the fire hall down there some day and have everything together, and one heating plant," said Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales.

The council approved Mr. Mathews' proposal for the sale locally of nine $1,000 serial debentures bearing interest at three percent. The bonds will be for periods varying from one to nine years. The proceeds will pay for the building.

WHAT ELSE CAN WE DO?

The Victory loan just around the corner will have more enthusiastic support from all classes of the population, we venture to predict, than any of its predecessors.

Aside from Hong-Kong and Dieppe, R.C.A.F. raids on the continent and participation in the Egyptian campaign, and the part Canadian seamen, navy and merchant, are playing in the Atlantic struggle, the home front prospects are beginning to look different.

The "have-littles" can see that, whether by accident or design, taxation and government changes are coming about, have already taken place, that distribute burdens and privileges more fairly among sections of the country and all classes of the population. The "have-muchs" can see that they have to do all they can, in addition to paying unprecedented tax levies, to renovate and rebuild the creaking old economic machine to do an every-man-at-work job.

We haven't heard any complaints from either group, or the in-betweens, and we gather that the universal attitude is like that of a small boy at the Christmas season: "What else can I do, Ma?"

LAMPLIGHTER

The reduction of street lighting by 20 per cent is apparently not a simple matter. "Hydro News" suggests some of the factors that should be considered. Danger spots, places where there have been a number of accidents, should have normal lighting maintained if at all possible. There are two or three places in Newmarket that have had a number of accidents.

Another point made is that reduction of lamps to one size smaller than those ordinarily used will give a reduction of more than 20 per cent and should not be resorted to wholesale. "It is suggested that careful consideration be given to the method of effecting a saving, in order that the remaining power may be used most effectively in the prevention of accidents and as a deterrent to crime." All suggestions made can be considered, but all obviously cannot be followed. Against reducing Main St. lighting is the suggestion that reduced display lighting in itself means a darker street and the statement that "Saturday night shopping in the business streets of towns and small cities naturally involves much crossing of streets between blocks, and is known to be a prolific cause of accidents" and that good lighting is therefore desirable.

Against reducing lighting on residential streets is the suggestion: "In certain small municipalities the lighting on some residential streets is no more than enough to mark the general direction of the streets and it is very doubtful if the illumination produced by reduced lighting would be of any value to pedestrians." Whether Newmarket's residential street lighting can be reduced and still be useful we do not know, but at least the article from "Hydro News" suggests some of the factors that will no doubt be taken into consideration when the town works out its final plan of reduced lighting. As citizens we will have to bear in mind that the light department may be trying to avoid accidents if it should light one section or one corner better than another.

LOTS OF POULTRY

The Fort Erie Times-Review gives the title "Stool-pigeons" to an article in criticism of an invitation from the wartime prices and trade board to consumers to send in anonymous information about retail prices or practices. The Times-Review quotes: "The information you give will be kept confidential. You need not sign your name or the name of your firm, but please fill in your city or town and your province." And then remarks: "Is this just the beginning of a bureaucratic campaign to encourage Canadians to spy on one another and then snitch anonymously to the government?"

From the information given, it would seem possible that the wartime prices and trade board is not asking for the names of particular retailers but just for the names of towns and cities where these price conditions exist.

However, we were interested in the juxtaposition of the Times-Review's next editorial paragraph: "Discussing the beef shortage a price-board official remarked that there was plenty of turkey and other poultry available for those who wanted meat. Sure, and if you can't get bananas there's no scarcity of stuffed olives or maraschino cherries in syrup." "Other poultry" might include the Times-Review's "stool-pigeons."

"ORDINARY CITIZEN"

Wendell Willkie, the Republican ambassador of U. S. democracy, tells China that the common man in all the United Nations feels the time has come to take the offensive everywhere. "I have learned that the ordinary citizen from Cairo to Moscow to Chungking is a lover of liberty and wants action now," says Mr. Willkie.

The only difficulty is that it will not be the common man, or the ordinary citizen, who will take the offensive. It will be the uncommon man, the extraordinary citizen, brave fellows like the men of Dieppe, who cheerfully carry out orders but do not share in the decisions—"theirs not to reason why, theirs but to do and die," who will take the offensive for which the common man and the ordinary citizen clamor.

"This ordinary citizen is far ahead of his leaders," Mr. Willkie is quoted as saying. "He is ready now. He is the strength of the United Nations. His faith in the justice of our cause makes him a superman. We must all catch his infectious spirit of enthusiasm for immediate, slashing, courageous attack to enable us to sweep over aggressor nations, and on to a new world of victory with justice, freedom, equality and opportunity for all nations." (Mr. Willkie probably said "equality of opportunity.")

If only these supermen could be uninformed and instructed to invade the continent, there would be nothing further to worry about, but Roosevelt, Churchill and their high command, let us be glad, are responsible leaders who are not throwing our men at the bristling guns of the continent until they think the time is ripe and, apparently, until they have thoroughly softened up Germany by bombing from the air. They are giving Germany such a pounding as no country ever had before and they are using brave men to do it, but they are using them effectively and economically. When men risk their lives they have a right to feel that their contribution is worthwhile, and is not just to satisfy the uninformed whim of a mass meeting.

WHAT OTHERS THINK

SOCIALISM IN OUR TIME

Peel C.C.F. Association is arranging a series of public meetings. Activity is being displayed in different parts of the province. Candidates for the constituency of South Waterloo have been chosen. For the federal seat Frank Ferguson, a schoolmaster, is the choice, and Grieve Robinson, a merchant, for the local. "Conscription of Wealth" will be the chief plank in the platform. The King government is carrying out that part of the program already, and without C.C.F. assistance.

BREAD DELIVERIES

Frequently, in view of the government's appeal to everyone to save tires and gasoline and hours of labor, is heard the question "Why do we need the number of bread wagons that daily travel the streets of Brampton?" A similar situation exists in Bowmanville, according to The Statesman of that town. A recent issue of that paper complains as follows:

"Here is the local picture: Each day in the town of Bowmanville and in the surrounding district, each owned by competing firms and corporations, and all scurrying for wartime business. All, according to directories, are Toronto or other metropolitan firms and all evidently are violating the 35 mile delivery law which really becomes effective on November 1. Conservation of gas, oil, rubber and manpower in this case evidently means nothing to these firms, to the 'controller' or to the government. All this in face of the fact that local bakeries can supply the complete needs of the community with equal or better quality at an equal or lower price, but big business attempts to shut them out."

"It costs 3c a loaf for long-distance delivery on top of all this senseless waste of oil and rubber." It may be properly assumed that most large firms, like private individuals, are anxious to obey the restrictions that seem necessary. At the same time evidences such as that mentioned deserve explanation. A good example was furnished by the Telegram and Star. They had two trucks delivering papers. They found that one could do the work without injuring the service. Perhaps a further study of the question by the bread people would bring equally satisfactory results.

Of People And Things

THANKSGIVING

By Isabel Inglis Colville

I suppose the will to give thanks is one of the oldest impulses in the world. From the beginning of recorded history conquering kings and peoples thanked their many gods or Jehovah for giving them victory over their enemies, nations gave thanks for bountiful harvests and national prosperity and individuals made offerings at the shrines of the particular god which they felt had given them their desire, or, if they were Jews, they took their offering to the temple.

Since the Christian era, most lands have harvest festivals, but they were independent of the state—any place in any country could celebrate when and as they pleased.

But since the landing of the pilgrim fathers at Plymouth, the United States has had a national Thanksgiving and for a good many years now Canada has followed suit.

That is, we have a Thanksgiving Day, but whether we use it to give thanks or whether it's just another holiday is a question.

There are services in the churches, but although children often march in procession for various causes, they do not march carrying their flowers and fruit for Thanksgiving Day.

I can remember when the fruit and vegetables were, after they had made a bow at the church, given to those to whom they were a treat—it brought Thanksgiving home to the little ones.

It's a day when we welcome absent members of the family to the home circle and kill for them the fatted calf—usually a nice plump turkey or chicken with their appropriate accompaniments of potatoes, turnips and pumpkin pie and embellishments of pickles and sauces and jellies and we enjoy the day and are GLAD if, but do we go deep down in our hearts and see if we are THANKFUL for it.

Not for the day, but what it stands for—this year especially—the more than bountiful harvest, untouched by enemies or by the scorched earth policy to keep it from the hands of our enemies.

For the right, the liberty to go to church and worship in the way best suited to our needs and the traditions we all hold dear.

For the right to talk of our hopes and fears, of what we wish the government would do, or wouldn't do, with no fear of a traitor in our midst to inform the dread Gestapo.

For the education of our children—AS children—not as puppets of the state, and for the right to listen to the radio, without being hauled off to a concentration camp.

As never before, we are at this time being asked to give of our money, our time, our work and our prayers, but are we giving thanks because of being able to live them?

How many countries are left where one would have any money to give, any time one could call one's own, any liberty to work at what would benefit one's fellow man?

As for prayers in the enslaved lands—they must be more for deliverance from evil than of thanksgiving. But surely—surely as God is in his heaven, there will come a day of WORLD thanksgiving when right shall have triumphed over might, when children shall be children, when our arms shall use, in a glorious peacetime for the benefit of mankind, the many trades and sciences which they learned as adjuncts to their soldiering, and all peoples, free and looking forward to a new era, shall sing:

"Now thank we all our God,
With hearts and hands and voices,
Who wondrous things hath done,
In whom the world rejoices,
Who from our mothers' arms
Hath blessed us on our way,
With countless gifts of love,
And still is ours today."

"I have a nice Russian lady stopping with me this last four months. She wants to write to you. I can't send you a snap of Mavis. We can't get any films now. She is the picture of health and getting very big."

A belt slipped off a pulley at the electric light station on Monday evening, causing an entire suspension of light on all connections for a minute or two. Fortunately such interruptions are few and far between.

GLADIOLI FORM

BRIDAL SETTING

Gladioli and ferns formed the background for a pretty wedding at the Christian Reformed church on Thursday evening when Miss Anne Winter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Winter, became the bride of Mr. J. Verkaik, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Verkaik.

The bride wore a lovely gown of white chiffon trimmed with lace and a floor-length veil, caught in a halo of lilies-of-the-valley. She carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss C. Winter, who wore a floor-length gown of coral chiffon and carried a bouquet of yellow roses. Mr. Geo. Verkaik acted as best man.

Rev. M. Schans officiated and Mr. E. Biemond played the wedding music.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the bride's home. The bride's mother received the guests and wore a rust street-length dress. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore a navy blue ensemble. They both wore corsages of pink gladioli.

The couple left on a trip to Collendar and points north. Out-of-town guests included

Sgt. Frank "Dutch" Cain who is stationed at Calgary, Alta., spent a few days in town recently, visiting his mother, Mrs. Wm. Cain. Many will remember this popular athlete of 20 years ago, who began his hockey career with Newmarket and Aurora teams, leaving Newmarket to join De La Salle Juniors. He later turned professional with Montreal Maroons. After many successful seasons in the N.H.L., he became a referee. Joining the air force about two years ago he is still a referee, hockey coach and athletic instructor. "Dutch" is a cousin of Herb Cain, of Newmarket.

PETER, PETER

By GOLDEN GLOW

Last Wednesday I had a welcome and interesting letter from Mrs. Arthur Hare, Holland Landing, to tell me that they, at their home, are also interested in our "Peter" bird and, having seen in one of my recent articles that none of us were positive of his true identity, she writes to say he is the Baltimore oriole.

We have seen him and if he isn't the Baltimore oriole he is certainly first cousin. We have watched him up in the big walnut tree near my home and wondered and wondered. For we have the oriole here every spring, year after year, and he is our special favorite. The robins come first, but it is

QUIET WEDDING IS HELD AT LEASIDE

A quiet wedding was solemnized at St. Cuthbert's Anglican church, Leaside, on Saturday, Oct. 3, when Mrs. Florence Thompson was united in marriage to Mr. Ralph S. Coupland of Newmarket, in the presence of the immediate relatives. Rev. Morley Lamb, B.A., B.D., performed the ceremony.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hall, son-in-law and daughter of the bride, at north Toronto.

MERLE THOMSON IS LOVELY BRIDE

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the United church parsonage, Aurora, on Saturday, Oct. 3, when Miss Merle Thomson, Toronto, only daughter of Mrs. Albert Tucker, Kettleby, and the late Mr. Ross Thomson, was united in marriage to John Fraser Mathewson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Mathewson, Newmarket. Rev. Roy Hicks performed the ceremony.

The bride was lovely in a street-length powder blue silk jersey dress, made on Torso lines with sweetheart neckline, and black accessories. Her corsage was pink roses and gladioli. Miss Margaret Mathewson, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid and wore a two-piece ensemble of pink sheer wool with navy blue accessories and a corsage of white gladioli. Cpl. Alex. Mathewson, R.C.A.F., Camp Borden, was his brother's groomsman.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. Mrs. Tucker received wearing a navy blue crepe dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink gladioli. The groom's mother assisted wearing a teal blue crepe dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink gladioli.

For a trip to northern Ontario the bride donned a beige wool dress, light blue tailored coat, Kolinsky furs and matching accessories.

"Too Many Memories Here For Those Who Came Back," Soldier In Dieppe Raid Tells Sister

An interesting letter has been received by Mrs. G. H. McCann, Newmarket, from her brother, Pte. R. J. S. Shepherd, who has been overseas two years and who was in the Dieppe raid. Pte. Shepherd's home is in Crystal City, Man. Some interesting excerpts follow:

"Thank you so much for the papers. We are so thankful for reading matter, especially in the camp, as we are four miles from town and over a mile from the bus line. Also to top it off we live in tents. But I sure hope we make another move soon. There are too many memories here for those of us who came back. Red and Vince are gone. Red was my best friend. Just like a younger brother or a son."

"But I guess I can be thankful to be here no matter what the camp is like. I sent Hazel (his wife) a cable Thursday morning and sure hope it didn't take too long getting there. One lad got an airmail written just as soon as the first news was heard on the radio in Canada so I should get an answer to my cable in another week."

"I was talking to a lad from Newmarket at the second division sports about a month ago. He knew you people, but I forget what his name was."

"I got a parcel from Hazel and tobacco from mother last week. Also a parcel from the Royal Bank society in Winnipeg. The manager at Crystal City had sent my name in as I was the first to enlist from home. There are quite a few over here now, but I haven't seen any of them for a year. I saw Roy Emmerson the end of June, when we were close to his outfit. Saw a few other Alameda lads the same day, but they were only kids when I left there in 1934."

of blossom, and can he sing! "He is so full of happiness when his mate is setting that he has to burst into song with his 'Peter, Peter, Peter.' We can't help seeing him, deep shining orange and black. I don't think you will see him any more this year, although I heard him a few weeks ago."

Thank you very much, Mrs. Hare. I know everyone else besides myself will enjoy your beautiful word picture.

the oriole we watch for, and his lovely song, there is absolutely nothing to equal it. However, we never knew for sure that the oriole later in the season changed his song to "Peter, Peter, Peter" all day! Now we know for sure, thanks to Mrs. Hare.

She says: "I notice you have not yet found out the identity of Peter! Well he is the Baltimore oriole and I know of no prettier picture than to see him singing and swaying in an apple tree full

THE GOLDEN EGG THAT HATCHES WAR SAVINGS — BONDS

You can't have your cake and eat it too—nor can you spend your money and save it. These are times for self-denial, when unnecessary spending must be replaced by saving. Budget your living costs and financial obligations. Then determine how much you can save every pay day. Create a golden egg that will hatch into happiness; a back-log to take care of emergencies; the corner-stone of a business opportunity, and an anchor for future security.

FARM FORUM

By MAE HARMAN

Farm Radio Forum became international in its scope on Sept. 21. On that evening, Canadian farm folk were privileged to hear a specially arranged broadcast from Britain, featuring experts of British agriculture. The viewpoints of both the practical farmer and the government were clearly expressed.

On Oct. 26, Farm Radio Forum will present a broadcast from United States. Speakers will be Claude Wickard and Glen Talbot, secretary of the North Dakota Farmers' Union.

In November, Farm Forums will be resumed on a weekly basis. The objective for Ontario is one thousand Forums. A forum in every farm community of North York is not impossible. The procedure for organizing and carrying on meetings is very simple. Information may be obtained from the office of Ontario Farm Radio Forums, 28 Duke St., Toronto.

May I again emphasize the need for farmers to meet together, discuss their problems and take some action themselves. It is our duty as farmers and as Canadian citizens to make agriculture recognized as an important war industry. Only then can we play our full part in the war effort, which is what we want most earnestly to do.

Now that I find myself caught in the whirl of university life, I feel that I cannot pursue my studies as I should and at the same time do justice to a column entitled "Farm Forum." Of more value would be reports of meetings of Farm Forums throughout the district. I look forward to seeing such reports, not just from two or three groups, but from tens of groups.

Since this is my last contribution to this paper, for the present, I want to express my thanks to the editor for his kindness to me. Also my appreciation goes to those who have been good enough to tell me that they found something of value and of interest in this column.

To all members of Farm Forums and of any other organization which exists for the common good, may you find both success and enjoyment in your work.

MOVIES PARADE

After a long search to find someone to portray the character based on Johns, another Welshman, Clifford Evans, was selected. He is co-starred in the film with Tommy Trinder and Constance Cummings.

"The First Commando," which plays at the Strand on Sunday midnight, Monday and Tuesday, is fiction, and the characters are fictional. But the story is based on the adventures of Melbourne Johns when he crossed war-torn France in those days of the Nazi break-through, taking with him the valuable machines in his care which he was determined should never fall into Nazi hands.

He found a British army lorry in the charge of some exhausted Tommies who had lost their unit, persuaded them to help him, and, with the Germans only a few hours behind, raced across the refugee-packed countryside to the coast.

He reached England safely with his precious machines, and it was only by sheer chance that his story got into the press. When Balcon decided to make a film around his adventures, Johns himself collaborated on the preparation of the screen story.

Location scenes were filmed in Cornwall, where the countryside was turned into French territory. The English signposts, which were in the process of disappearing, were replaced by French signs; French hoardings went up; cars were given French number plates.

The tragic spectacle of homeless refugees, blocking the roads and interfering with military movements, forms part of the background of the film, providing a grim and topical lesson for the public in this country. Genuine French refugees appear in these scenes together with evacuees from London and other parts of the country and local Cornish folk.

Lew Ayres and Lionel Barrymore as Mrs. Kildare and Gillespie, grapple with new medical problems in "Dr. Kildare's Victory," latest of the Kildare series, opening Wednesday at the Strand theatre.

A young intern gets in trouble saving a life in a zone supposed to be that of another hospital and the two doctors, with the aid of a debutante accident victim whose life had been saved, finally save the day for the doctor and his sweetheart, a hospital nurse.

A dramatic plea to the hospital board, a delicate operation, an accident in which a night club sign falls on the victim, and Ayres restoring of a smothered baby before the eyes of anguished parents, are dramatic highlights.

The picture introduces a glamorous new acting discovery in Ann Ayars, a young concert singer. She is beautiful, a graphic actress.

(Note: Everybody wants to know how they can help the war effort. Here is an easy way to help. Help reduce that 11 to 12 noon demand for power.)

Help Yourself! Help Your Town! Help Your Country!

Ontario's war industries need all the electric power they can get. At the present time of the year the chief strain on power resources comes between 11 a.m. and noon, when most people are using their electric stoves to prepare the midday meal.

You can help the war effort by using as little power as possible at this time of day. Do your ironing earlier or in the afternoon. Kindly keep hot-water heaters, electric washing-machines, electric grates and heaters, and all other electric appliances off at this hour if possible.

You could help by cooking your dinner at night instead of midday, or between 12 noon and 1 p.m., instead of 11 and 12, if those hours would be possible for you. You can also help by doing as much of your cooking as possible before 11 a.m. and by using as few of your stove elements as possible between 11 and 12. If you can take a little longer time and use only the bottom elements in your oven, please do so.

Please do not do baking between 11 and 12. By using your stove at other hours, when there is less demand on the system, you will get better service. You will find that you get more heat from your stove, and at the same cost, at other hours.

Probably we should say "at less cost," for by keeping as much as possible off the "peak demand period" between 11 a.m. and 12 you will help to keep down the town's electric power bill and you will share, as a citizen of the town, in any savings, just as you would have to share, in the long run, in any increased power costs that might result if we did not all try to help in the various ways suggested above.

IS NO TIME FOR

LONG-WINDED TELEPHONE TALKS

On a telephone system loaded with wartime business, long talks are out . . . for the duration.

Joe forgets that an important call may be waiting for him or his golfing crony. He forgets, too, that the telephone on his desk is part of a vast communications system which he shares with key men in aircraft and explosives plants, at army posts and in government offices. They have important messages to put through, every hour of the day.

Remember . . . existing equipment is carrying many more calls than ever before. So please limit the number of your telephone talks . . . and keep them brief.

Decide, today . . . not to waste time on the telephone . . . as long as the war lasts!

This week's contest is open to everybody. Five double passes will again be given and winners will have their choice of seeing "It Turned Out Nice Again," with George Formby, and "Steel Against the Sky," with Alexis Smith and Lloyd Nolan, on Tuesday, Oct. 20, or "They All Kissed the Bride," with Joan Crawford and Melvyn Douglas, and "Ghost of Frankenstein," with Bela Lugosi and Lon Chaney.

If you can't get all the answers to this week's contest, remember that two weeks ago four of the winners had only nine answers correct. But you can get them all right if you think hard enough and work hard enough.

All the words will be found in the classifieds:

1. Part of an artillery brigade, part of a baseball team, part of a criminal offense.

2. When his wife used the same coffee ----- three mornings in succession a Newmarket citizen said that it was ----- for divorce and that if she did it again he would join the army and make his home at the fair.

3. If cleanliness were next to godliness, as the Chinese say it is, what building would stand beside the church?

4. What fur-bearing animal is feeling somewhat relieved as a result of the gasoline shortage?

5. The little daughter of an apiarist was trying to repeat after her mother a nursery rhyme. She said: "Little Miss Muffet, sat on a tuffet, eating curds and whey. Along came a spider and sat down neetar and frightened Miss Muffet away."

6. What word in the classified columns is suggested by the idea in the little girl's mind?

7. "I'm a 12 o'clock guy in a nine o'clock town. I don't get up till the sun goes down." What wasn't this young man besides lacking in funds and wisdom?

8. Applied to a soldier this name indicates one commanding an army, applied to a cook it indicates one commanding a household, applied to a store it indicates that you can get almost anything you want to buy.

9. No poetic license would be needed for a well-known saying if it read thus: "A job begun is a job ----- done."

10. Anglians please help: "We have erred and ----- from thy ways."

11. Shakespeare makes one of his clowns say something like this: "There's no news but the new news and that is the old news." Today he would probably jest of the continent of Europe: "There is no ----- but the new ----- and that is the old -----."

Send in your answers anyway. And just one answer from any one household please.

WILL HAVE FOREMEN MAKE DAILY REPORT

"Under the present system we do not know without personal inquiry what work has been done each week," Mayor Frank Underhill told the Aurora town council on Monday night.

"I would like to see some form of permanent record kept," the mayor said. "We would know just where all our materials go. It would serve as an inventory too."

"It is a good idea," said councillor A. N. Fisher. "The foremen can fill the records in daily and they can be kept in the clerk's office for all to see."

"The clerk can draft a form for the council to see and if we like it we can have some printed," said the mayor. "It should not be too elaborate. Often these printed forms take too long to fill in."

"I will have a draft ready next week," promised Clerk A. C. Willis. "The chairman of each committee could tell at a glance just what work has been done."

"There should be no slip-ups with such a system," declared Reeve C. A. Malloy. "The men are doing the work all right, but we don't know what has been accomplished from week to week."

Cousins Dairy Is Entered Four Times In Two Years

Thieves made their way into Cousins Dairy for the fourth time in two years early Sunday morning. They were evidently frightened away while at work and departed in haste taking only a few packages of cigarettes and gum. Entrance was gained through the skylight to the main part of the plant. Then the intruders forced the door into the office.

The small safe, which has been both removed from the premises and jimmied open on the premises, is now enclosed in a heavy wooden frame and the marauders attempted to get at it by whittling around the frame with butcher knives. Only a few notches were made in the wood.

The break-in was discovered around 7 a.m. by Harry Squibb, an employee. Chief Constable Fisher, Dunham, and County Constable Aubrey Fleury investigated.

Tell Citizen To Tear Down New Garage Or Make Right

"What about the private garage built next to Stout's?" queried Councillor G. A. C. Guntton at Aurora town council on Monday evening.

"It's built," said the mayor. "That may be, but it's an eyesore to the main street and does not come within the building by-law," said Councillor Guntton.

"I agree, it doesn't look very good," said the mayor. "Mr. Dion was told he would have to comply with the by-laws and promised to do so," said Clerk A. C. A. Willis. "He hasn't done what he said he would do. If I had thought it would be like this, I wouldn't have issued a permit."

"The purpose of the by-law was to provide both fire protection and keep out eyesores," said Councillor Guntton.

"We can give five days notice to either put it as it was supposed to be or to tear it down," said Clerk Willis.

Several Aurora boys serving overseas with the armed forces have recently won merited promotions with their units. William C. (Bill) Stuart, son of ex-Councillor and Mrs. John Stuart, has been commissioned as a lieutenant. He went overseas in May, 1940. On several occasions he has been heard on overseas broadcasts.

Previous to enlisting he was an auditor with the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

In Canada George Langstaff of the 35th Veterans Guard company, stationed at Niagara, has been promoted to corporal. George is a veteran of the last war.

Charles Rowe, son of Mrs. Bert Rowe, Guntton St., who was wounded in action in June of this year, has been promoted from sergeant to flight-sergeant with the R.C.A.F. He has been overseas since August, 1941.

Ernie Ellis, Vera Pugh

Are Field Day Champions

With perfect weather prevailing Aurora public school ran off their annual field day yesterday with fine performances in every event.

In the morning those eliminated from the finals settled their own scores while in the afternoon individual and team championships were competed for. Team captains were Ernie Ellis, Jolyne Doolittle, Norman Rank, Vera Barkey, and Bill Mundell with Miss Doolittle's team winning out over Ellis'.

Ernie "Junior" Ellis stole the show with six firsts to take the senior title. He broke the record in the running hop step and jump with a leap of 34'9". He also ran the final leg of the relay to send his team home in front. Bill Mundell was on his heels in most events, scoring 24 points.

Verna Pugh took the girls' senior title by one point over Patsy Sutton. Verna had 25 points and Patsy 24. The winning margin came in the high jump when Miss Sutton dropped out.

Billy McGhee won the intermediate boys' title from Bill Linton by four points. McGhee's five points in the races gave him 26 points, a four-point margin over Linton, who did well in the field events.

Shirley Sutton dominated the intermediate girls' class with 25 points, all firsts. Her jumping distances were better than in the senior class. Marjorie Sawyer finished second with 20 points.

High McGhee and Ethel Thomson won the junior titles by nice margins.

AURORA SCOUTS AND CUBS PEDDLE APPLES

The Aurora Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs are planning to hold their annual apple day this year on Saturday, Oct. 17. The Scouts and Cubs are out to beat their record of $47 profit last year, and to send Scouting and Cubbing ahead with an impetus into the 1942 season.

Boy Scout apple day is now an old time-honored institution with Canadian Scouts. Its benefits are twofold in that it raises money for Scouting purposes and promotes the sale of Canadian apples.

All funds collected by the sale of Boy Scout apples are used to purchase Scouting gear such as flags, compasses, camping and hiking equipment, boxing gloves, buzzers, etc. The Scouts will be showing some of their equipment in an exhibit next week in the window of the Queen's hotel. Those who are interested in the work carried on by the Scouts ought to see this display.

Mrs. B. H. Clarke presided and Dr. Crawford Rose, accompanied by Mrs. A. G. A. Willis, was guest soloist. Mrs. T. Langford read the scripture lesson.

"It is remarkable how the boys of different countries respond to kindness," declared Miss Latimer. "They are all needed. They need the hymns and take part in the Sunday-school services."

Miss Latimer said mission work must go on.

The collection amounted to $75.

DOWN THE CENTRE

Orchids go to our old friend Harry Couse, erstwhile headman of the defunct York-Simcoe softball league, who pitched the Engineers to the championship of the Camp Borden league. The final series went three games. In the first one Couse tossed a six-hitter to lose out as his mates committed four errors. The next game Handsome Harry decided to take no chances and heaved a no-hitter. In the final the Engineers found their batting eye and the Cookstown boys pitched a three-hit performance to win the game 13-0. In three final games then Couse allowed but nine hits and blanked his opponents in two. The other game saw only one earned run against him. That, my friends, is a neat bit of twirling in any company and as you know from the Army teams we've seen this summer, there are quite a few nifty ball players on most teams. In fact, a good army team is at least of senior B calibre. It was Couse's second no-hit performance. As you will recall, he twirled one last year in the finals against Richmond Hill Roses. Only around 22 or 23, Harry would be a sensation in Toronto fast-ball circles if given a chance. When the war is over, he'll still be able to show his stuff if he escapes injury. Our guess is that there are few better hurlers in Ontario right now. No more modest or better liked player ever performed in the district league than Couse.

Red Laking, a teammate from the Barrie Collegians and one of the best outfielders and hitters these parts ever knew, was parked in the outfield and did his bit for Couse and the Engineers with several fine fielding plays.

While on the subject of pitching our scouts bring us news of Bill Thornton, the Tottenham boy, who played junior hockey for Aurora back in 1936. Bill is a corporal with the R.C.A.F. at Moncton, N.B., and has been pitching ball for the fliers in the Moncton city league with considerable success. Sport writers have dubbed him "Iron Arm" Thornton, and rightfully because in the march to the title by the almen he has pitched practically every game. In the final game against a town outfit called the Volcanoes the fliers won out 21-6, allowing ten scattered hits and whiffing seven. In that game Thornton put the skids under his opponents with a bags-full homer when the teams were about on even terms. So Bill decides being the ace hurler, was in the Red Ruffing class. He still keeps an interest in Aurora and last year when on leave braved a snowstorm to drop down to Aurora to see the juniors in action.

CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC CO. LIMITED

Barrie Colts two years ago and was replaced by Ross Waddell in the play-offs after he underwent an operation, has joined the navy and is now stationed in Toronto. Charlie played a few games at Georgetown in the Thunder Bay senior league last year.

Gas restrictions have practically put a quietus on inter-town sports unless the centres are close to one another. It appears unlikely that many hockey matches of the type of other years will be played outside the big cities. Taxi trips, which seemed the logical thing, are put because of the 15-mile radius law. Buses can't be hired for sports purposes. No provision is made for trucks to haul teams, so that's out too. True, there is no restriction on how far you can go, provided you have the gas, but who has the gas to spare? And echo answers who?

The British government has deemed it wise to allow British soccer teams to travel by road transport, truck, bus or private car within a radius of 50 miles when other transportation cannot be secured. The transportation problem is worse in the tight little island than in Canada. Yet the Churchill government has given sport permission to travel.

No criticism is offered by yours truly nor will you make any, chum, we know, because, after all the British Isles have been through, who are we to criticize? We mention the fact because sports must be more important than even the sporting fraternity in Canada have thought. Fifty miles may not use much by way of gasoline, oil, or tires in England, but freighting space to get rubber and fuel to England is a serious matter. If the government here allowed that 50-mile radius, there isn't an O.H.A. group which couldn't function this winter, even with a player shortage. Beyond that distance would be only play-off trips, which could well be made by train. Perhaps the problem in England is that while you may travel the 50-mile radius, can you find the gas to do so?

Do it right and you seldom hear about it but make a mistake and the wolves come barking at your door. You remember that baseball problem of how to get to first base? Well, we had it worked out right but as we typed we got hold of the word "balk" and put it in too. We knew better, too, but perhaps we weren't as sure as we might have been. When we saw it in print we knew it was wrong. George Haskett, Harrie Couse and Stan Smith of the Davis Leather outfit worked out the problem and found out we were wrong. So we're glad to correct it and say the balk is out. Thanks fellows, we appreciate the fact you read "Down the Centre" and will be pleased to be corrected at any time. We try hard to be right but we're not infallible.

Hockey rinks, in case you've been wondering, have been granted permission to use their accustomed lighting this winter and that goes, too, for the artificial plants who use quite a bit more juice than natural ice rinks. The lighting outside, however, comes under the same restrictions as the stores and restaurants. There is no doubt, however, but that the rink owners are less than keen that no need-less lights are burning. Probably there'll be some spot or black-out numbers on skating nights, which will probably be well received by the patrons. We mean there'll be more than usual.

Art Russell, former Markham junior hockeyist, has reported to the R.C.A.F. for service, adding to an already long list of boys on service.

Dick Pearson of Sutton has again made dispatches from overseas with his fine quarter-milling. This time he didn't finish better than four but it was close and he was up against about the best in the British empire. Pearson is a sergeant and has done well in all the big meets to date. Capt. Alan Pennington, a former Oxford star who toured Canada last event. We had the pleasure both of meeting and luncheon with Pennington back in 1937 and found him to be everything we had always pictured a top-ranking English sportsman to be. A. J. Hissette, a Canadian from Manitoba, pushed Pennington to the top. Pearson has beaten Hissette in Canadian meets.

Hollywood gets a bit of space now. We ask our readers to name for us the stars who have taken part in the Olympic games and are now doing all right as permanent movie fixtures. There are six that we know of, perhaps more, but we have included only those who are in the star class and have lingered on the scene. You'll find the names at the bottom of the column. Don't spoil it by looking now.

Regis Kelly, known to most as plain "Pop," the sparkplug of the Newmarket dominion champs of '32 and erstwhile Maple Leaf and Blackhawk, is located, as we told a few months ago, in St. Catharines, where he will seek an amateur card and so, it is said, succeed Jimmy Fowler as playing coach of the senior Saints in the O.H.A. That's the plan now, but, with players a problem in the big pro ranks, "Pop" might just get another whirl at big-time competition.

"Red" Horner spilled all rumors of a return to the hockey lanes this season by accepting an appointment as linesman for the N.H.L. this season.

Align of the times. For the first time an outsider won the championship of the Orillia Golf Club. Gunner Bill Cameron, of Toronto, a 19-year-old recruit at Orillia camp, won the honors last week. Further sign of the times was a 15-year-old Orillia youth, Bob Dilworth.

Tom Burnes, the Markham softball, has been transferred to Orillia by his bank employers, and Tom Wilson, one of the hockey club executives of the same centre, has been transferred by his bank to Carp, Ont.

New draft laws, which lower the age of those to be called to 19, must have given the pro hockeyists and junior hockeyists a severe jolt. Most junior A teams numbered quite a few just on the borderline of manhood, and like-wise the Maple Leafs and other teams were counting on quite a few 19-year-old boys. Dave Stewart, Rhesp. Mayor of Guelph, Lorne

Evans of Milton are three of "Happy" Day's young proteges likely to be affected and the other teams will be afraid to go far in including these boys in the plans. The effect on O.H.A. teams can well be imagined. Oshawa juniors, who have a few of last year's team left over, can thank their stars they picked them young enough when they were bringing in new players. "Red" Tilson, Smith, Guidolin and Curry are only 17 years of age, which leaves them a fine nucleus.

Bill Armstrong, former Aurora and Penetang junior, said also to be in Oshawa, has also yet to see 18. The new draft laws are said not to be applicable until January, but many of the lads will beat their call papers to the armed forces, while around play-off time, with the calls in full swing, most teams would be hard hit.

Barrie Colts are taking stock of things and find they have three of last year's team left over, according to press reports from the north, and, of course, they can always get reinforcements from Camp Borden. They also had a smart juvenile team, which leaves them in a fair spot, if they have any opposition to play against.

Walter Duggan of Newtonbrook, now 22, has brought honor to North York sportsmen with his splendid performance at the Dieppe soccer, which netted him the military medal. Walt attended Earl Haig C.I., where he was prominent in sports and played hockey for North York. According to his mother, his big ambition was to make a place with the Toronto Maple Leafs. We remember a few years ago taking a winter jaunt to Willowdale arena, along with Bert Tunney, to look over some prospective material for Aurora juniors. Duggan was one of those we saw in action and labored for future reference. He was green but game and with the surplus of talent on hand it didn't look as if Charlie Rowntree could use him. Next year, when we went looking for him, he had joined the army. So a slip of the coin might have meant one of the Aurora players would have gone on to win a decoration and bring honor to the club. Tunney decided there were enough green youngsters right around home without pulling in another. Perhaps one of the Aurora juniors will emulate Duggan's feat.

The press accounts say he tried heroically to land a heavy mortar on the beach single-handed and then joined others at a machine-gun and hot action on the beach. Whatever he did, among a thousand feats of courage and heroism, Duggan's was big enough to merit the M.M. For that matter, Canadian athletes did pretty well. Lieut.-Col. Merritt, the V.C. winner, is a former Vancouver footballer, while Capt. Denny Whitaker, with an M.C. and Lieut. Ewener, with an M.M., are both well-known rugby stars. Whitaker with R.M.C. and Hamilton Tigers, and Ewener with Western U and Sarnia. Our friend, Ben, Brachman, a captain with the R.C.A.M.C., and a former interfaculty player with Meds. at Queen's University, was mentioned in dispatches.

Heard one about the married man who announced to his wife: "Dear, I've just taken out a $10,000 insurance policy." His wife smiled sweetly and said: "That's swell, dear. Now you won't have to call the doctor every time you're sick."

Congratulations to John Mathewson, who on Saturday middle-aged it with Ila Merle Thomson of Toronto. Johnny, who until last month kept store here, leaves shortly to join the armed forces. Back in 1930 as a youngster he was playing juvenile hockey in the Newmarket town league at the time when Bill Hancock was building those big-time Reiden machines. The year following he was passed up in the shuffle for the junior team, altho' a real prospect. Hancock had so many ready-made or imported stars on hand, there wasn't time to experiment. So, following the example set by "Rocco" Smart, he asked and received a trial with Aurora juniors.

Aurora was trying to buck the canal-townies in those days but could not compete with the Newmarket inducements nor did they have the same capable talent scouts. So they were always just short of being able to meet the Redmen on even terms. Johnny, a thin, wiry kid, was given a chance and turned in some fine performances for a year or two here, altho' he quit hockey just when he was coming into his own. In any case, he had a warm spot in his heart for Aurora, and the feeling was mutually reciprocated, so that in a business way he spent practically all the intervening years here. Lots of luck, John!

Norman Lane is the new director of athletics and rugby coach at St. Andrew's college and on Saturday this team went into action against Pickering firsts and bit the dust. He hasn't had much time with his boys and lacks some of the material of other years. So, on the whole, he hasn't done a bad job. Lane is a graduate of Queen's University and we think he played some minor football there. Later, he took a P.T. course and taught at Cantab in Toronto last year. Mr. Lane comes to St. Andrew's at a time when it will take real ability to bring the Andean teams up to par, and we shall watch his work with interest.

Games have been carded with the fairly strong U.P.S. team both here and in Toronto for October. Bernie Taylor, a former Varsity player, has succeeded Lou Hayman as coach at U.P.S. St. Andrew's, with no bus facilities available, will have a conference scheduled. Ridley and Takeda will probably not be on the schedule. Present plans include a trip by train to Port Hope to play Trinity college, U.C.O. will play home and home games with St. Andrew's. There will be plenty of games on tap, however, for those who want to journey to the St. Andrew's camp this fall.

Georgian Bay schools from Owen Sound to Orillia, who have always had a strong league each year, have folded up for a dissection due to lack of travel facilities. Dr. G. F. Rogers, deputy-minister of education, has requested secondary schools to curtail their interschool program and concentrate on inter-class games. The latter program is all right for a big school. At Hamilton, when the board of education ordered interschool games cancelled, the students staged a march on the city hall in protest and soon had the edict reversed. We see no point in curtailing school sports in the cities, where transportation is by radial or street-car. There will be, as has been the case the past few years, no North York interschool track meet but we presume the odd game of soccer can be worked in and the basketball league can be carried on as usual.

At least, we hope so.

The individual schools will hold their own school meets, although we're not sure about what will happen at Newmarket high. Aurora, Richmond Hill, Markham and Stouffville have already announced their field days for this fall. Richmond Hill public school held its meet last week, while Aurora is holding its junior meet this week.

The answer to our Hollywood sports question is as follows: Errol Flynn, who was on the British boxing team, Glenn Morris, the Olympic decathlon champ, Sonja Henie, the Norwegian and world figure-skating champion, and from the swimming ranks of international sport long dominated by the States, the three-star trio of Johnny Weissmuller (Mr. Tarzan), Buster Crabbe, and the lovely Eleanor Holm, who missed the last Olympic games with a temporary mental performance. Wrestlers, boxers and track men have all appeared in shorts or briefly in spots but couldn't be classed with the above-named sixsome.

J. H. COLLINS HAD LIVED
IN TOWN 54 YEARS

Funeral services were held on Saturday afternoon at the Road-for John Henry Collins, who died suddenly in his sleep last Wednesday morning. He was a familiar figure in Newmarket, where he had lived since moving from the Sharon district in 1888.

Mr. Collins, who was 88 years of age, had been in apparently good health and on the day of his death had walked downtown and had spent the evening at home with friends. Among these was
Mr. Collins' grandson, Sgm.
Gordon Collins, who two weeks ago came to Newmarket camp.
Born at Sharon, the son of Charity Johnston and John Collins of Sharon and Lake Simcoe,
Mr. Collins spent his youth and

On coming to Newmarket Mr.

teamster, and then, for over 30 years, was employed at the lumber yards and dry-kiln of the Office Specialty Company. He retired about eight years ago.
He was a member of the Christian-Congregational church. Mr.
Collins enjoyed gardening and daily walks downtown until the time of his death.
Mr. Collins is survived by his widow and two sons, Walter M.
Collins, Newmarket, and Russell
G. Collins, Toronto. A daughter,
Mrs. Florence Pritchard, died 19 years ago. There are three grandchildren, Jean Collins, B.A., Plattsville, Spmn. Gordon M.
Collins, Newmarket camp, and Jack Pritchard, Toronto, son of
R. L. Pritchard of Newmarket.
The funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. B. Stein of the Christian-Congregational church.

Burial was made in the family plot in Newmarket cemetery.
Pallbearers were: T. P. Robinson,
Jos. Tunney, Jos. Brammar,
Fred Lundy, W. H. Eves and Robert Howlett.

Numerous letters of sympathy, cards and telegrams and a number of floral tributes were received by the family.
Among those attending the funeral service were Miss Mary
Fox and Mr. Frank Fox, Buffalo;
Miss Emma Fox, Mr. Fred Fox, and Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Fox, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Botham, and Miss Smith, Bradford; Mrs. Howard Smith, Edgeley; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mee, and

84-YEAR-OLD MAN JAILED FOR SELLING

"They got all they wanted for nothing," stated John O'Connor, Newmarket, when pleading not guilty to charges of keeping liquor for sale and of illegal possession, before Magistrate W. N. Robinson in York county police court in Newmarket on Tuesday.

After hearing all the evidence in the case, his worship concluded that the defendant was guilty of selling liquor and sentenced him to jail for a period of two months with the recommendation that, if an application be made to the parole board, he be granted a parole and that his house be declared a public place. The charge of illegal possession against him was withdrawn.

Chief Constable James Sloss, Newmarket relief inspector, testified that he had known Mr. O'Connor for ten years and that he later lived by himself at the corner of Main and Queen Sts. He is an old-age pensioner, 84 years old, with an income of approximately $28 a month. The officer said that he had had to investigate the defendant's financial position with regard to a hospitalization bill sent into the town for payment, as the defendant was considered an indigent.

"At about 3 p.m. on July 31, accompanied by Constable Watt, I searched the premises of Mr. O'Connor," testified Chief Constable Sloss. "On entering the front door, I found the accused in the front room, also a woman with three little kiddies, and a man who was not an occupant of the house. I noticed the table was not cleared from dinner. The table was littered with beer bottle caps. I found three partly consumed glasses of beer. On searching the back room I found a partly consumed bottle of liquor."

"I asked Mr. O'Connor if he had a permit to cover this liquor and he said that he had," continued Chief Sloss. "He went to the cupboard in the front room and produced three partly consumed bottles of liquor, dated Oct. 10, 1941, and Oct. 13, 1941, and Nov. 29, 1941. The last one was in the name of Earl Bray, a neighbor. The accused said that this covered the bottle of liquor. He said that he had a cough and that a bottle like that lasted him three months."

The officer went on to say that he had been making further investigation and found 33 quarts of ale in a small cupboard off the back room. "There were two cases unopened, one case opened and one case of empties," stated Chief Sloss.

Corroborating the evidence given by Chief Sloss, County Constable Ronald Watt added that there was a padlock on the back room where the cases of beer were kept and that the defendant himself opened the lock for them.

"I asked Mr. O'Connor what was in there and he said some beer," stated the witness.

According to Andrew Hoey and Clifford Reagin, both of Toronto, truck drivers, each of them had made deliveries of beer to Mr. O'Connor's house between May 15 and Aug. 4, but neither could swear that it was the defendant who signed the liquor control board slips on every occasion.

"I might call to your attention, your worship, that according to the alibi, during the period from July 4 to July 31 $56 worth of beer was delivered," said N. L. Mathews, K.C., for the crown. "Besides this, during the period from May 15 to Aug. 4 $143.40 worth was delivered. That makes a total of approximately $200 delivered in three months."

"They told me that they were coming to search my house, and I told them, 'alright go ahead,'" stated Mr. O'Connor, when questioned by his own counsel, Charles Evans, Bradford. He admitted having a large quantity of beer delivered to his house but denied selling it.

"I said that I had sold some of the beer which was purchased in his name was paid for by as Mr. McNetney, who sometimes stayed at his place."

Cross-examined by Crown Attorney N. L. Mathews as to who was present when the police made a search of his house, Mr. O'Connor said that there was a Mr. Porter and a Mrs. Dunlop. He denied that he had mentioned person had had any beer and stated that the third party consumed glass of beer belonged to the truck driver who a short time previously had delivered some beer.

Asked by the crown what Mrs. Dunlop was doing at his house if he was not drinking, the defendant replied, "I don't know, maybe I was a good neighbor and a good talker."

"Where did you get the money for the beer?" questioned the crown.

"Mr. McNetney paid for some of it," replied the defendant. "Sometimes I have a weiner supper and have seven or eight people in. Some of my friends give me a little gift." He denied selling any beer to anyone.

"They got all they want for nothing," he stated.

"There were 11 cases of beer delivered in one week, there must have been several weiner suppers that week," commented the crown.

After a search of the files, Chief Constable Sloss, called for the defence told his worship that the defendant had been in the hospital from May 15 to May 30, during which time he purchased of beer amounting to $47.60 had been made in Mr. O'Connor's name by some other person.

"After considering this case carefully and taking into account the age of the accused, I must come to the conclusion that he kept liquor for sale," stated Magistrate Robinson. "I must, in view of the age of the accused, give every consideration to every doubt there might be. Between May 15 and May 30 $47.60 worth was purchased. I am not considering that. During the month of June and July I find that the accused did receive beer to the amount of $132.40. If the accused had been giving beer to friends who called, I do not think that he would have had it under lock and key. He would have had it in a cupboard or some place handy to take out. This man is an old-age pensioner. He has not been in trouble before. I think it is unfortunate that he should run a place like that and allow a woman whose husband is in the army to go there and bring three small children. She went there as often as three times a week to get beer. I am going to give the minimum penalty of two months. I am willing to pass along a recommendation for a parole."

Magistrate Robinson found Elias Smart not guilty of careless driving on Queen St., Newmarket, on Sept. 18, when his car was in collision with a motorcycle driven by Earl Bray, Newmarket, at the corner of Raglan St.

According to Mr. Bray, he had been riding east on Queen, shortly after noon on the day in question, and as he approached Raglan St. the car driven by the defendant, which was going west, made a sudden left-hand turn, colliding with his motorcycle and throwing him to the pavement. The witness stated that there was a man standing on the running-board of the Smart car at the time of the accident, that he had been travelling at about 15 miles an hour and that the Smart car was going slowly also.

"Did he give any indication that he was going to make the turn?" asked Mr. Mathews. The witness said not.

Arnold Leeder, Newmarket, who was standing on the corner of Raglan and Queen Sts. at the time the accident occurred, testified that the Smart car had turned in front of the motorcycle.

"Mr. Bray was going on his own side of the road and Mr. Smart's car cut right across," he stated.

Chief Sloss, who investigated the accident, informed his worship that the point of impact, as indicated by dirt on the road and pointed out to him by both Mr. Bray and Mr. Smart, was practically in the centre of Queen St.

"What was Mr. Smart's condition?" asked the crown.

"I didn't notice any alcohol," replied the officer.

Lytle Bond, Newmarket, witness for the defence, told his worship that he saw Mr. Bray riding with one leg up in the air and his head bent down.

"In my opinion it was a case of too much speed and not seeing where he was going," stated the witness.

Gordon Boddington, Newmarket, and Milton Lepard, Queensville, both passengers in the Smart car, testified that in their opinion the complainant, Mr. Bray, had lost control of his motorcycle.

"I believe that the motorcycle was not operated in a proper manner," ruled his worship. "To put it mildly, there is doubt and I'll give the accused the benefit of this doubt. The case will be dismissed."

"Soldiers have no more right to drive over the speed limit than anyone else," Magistrate Robinson ruled. "Mr. Reid, Campford, whom Provincial Constable Alex. Ferguson stated was travelling at 50 miles an hour on Yonge St. on Sept. 11. 'Some men think that because they are in the army they can do as they please.'"

Constable Ferguson testified that he had been driving his motorcycle over 50 miles an hour in some places. Mr. Reid stated that he had been taking a passenger to Toronto to meet a train for Hamilton. He did not think that he was going over 50 miles an hour.

"I am giving you the benefit of the doubt, and fining you the minimum of $15 and costs," stated his worship. "I am being lenient with you. Ordinarily I would give a fine of $25 and costs to a person doing over 50 miles an hour."

Four other motorists, all residents of Toronto, received fines of $15 and costs for exceeding the speed limit. They were Mike Pryszniak, who was fined in Aurora by Chief Constable Fisher Dunham, Herbert A. Jones and Nyeza N. Wise, each fined by County Constable Ronald Watt (Mr. Jones was fined on the 9th concession of King and Mr. Wise on the 3rd concession of East Gwillimbury), and Julius Raim, who was fined by County Constable William Hill in North Gwillimbury.

Magistrate Robinson adjourned for four weeks the case of Gordon Hoels, Toronto, who is charged with careless driving and dangerous driving.

He adjourned for a week the case of Roy E. Fawell, Uxbridge, charged with careless driving and dangerous driving.

PRINCE ALBERT MAYOR VISITS NEWMARKET

Mayor S. J. A. Branion, K.C., of Prince Albert, Sask., was the guest of Mrs. J. W. Brown last week. Mayor Branion was a delegate to the tenth general council of the United Church of Canada held in Belleville, Sept. 9 to 18. He was one of five delegates commissioned to call on Premier Mackenzie King concerning the liquor question and to report back to the general council.

Mayor Branion made complimentary comments about Pickering College, Newmarket high school and the military camp. He was surprised to learn that the pencils he had been using for years, manufactured by Dixon Pencil Co., were made in Newmarket, and that office equipment used throughout the dominion was made by the Office Specialty Mfg. Co.

He was thrilled with the number of trees about the town, especially the old elm on Timothy St.

Mayor Branion left on Wednesday evening to attend the banquet in Toronto for Dr. J. R. P. Slater, newly appointed moderator, and then took the mid-night train for home, having enjoyed the autumnal beauty of old Ontario once again.

Mr. Branion was a school chum of the late J. W. Brown. They attended St. Mary's Collegiate and Toronto normal school together.
